to ask Senator Janssen, if he would yield.

PRESIDENT ROBAK: Senator Janssen, will you yield?

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yes.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Senator Janssen, I'm just curious about a couple of things. Can you tell me.... Well, first of all, can you tell me how much money is available for grants right now? Just a ballpark figure, like last year, do you know how much money was in that fund for educational projects?

SENATOR JANSSEN: No, I don't, I can't.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Okay. I'll ask Senator Kiel then, she probably would have an idea. The second question was, were you envisioning a certain percentage of this money would be used for these kinds of minigrants, or is it conceivable that under your bill all of the money could be used for minigrants and not the more major kinds of grants?

SENATOR JANSSEN: No, Senator Schimek, they would still have to...they would still have to apply for this grant. All right?

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Oh, I understand that.

SENATOR JANSSEN: All right. It would be up to the committee to decide who got those grants, as they do now.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: So there's no restriction here at all?

SENATOR JANSSEN: No.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Okay.

SENATOR JANSSEN: They wouldn't have to issue any of them.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Correct. Okay.

SENATOR JANSSEN: Yeah.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: You're not setting any guidelines for the
